

How to Reconfigure a Dashboard So It Retains Its Position

Certain dashboard panel configurations will not keep their position after the dashboard has been saved. When the dashboard is brought up again, the panels may have moved around.

This problem occurs with dashboards that have more than 1 column of panels. The Overview dashboard is a good example.

The workaround for this is to remove the panel or panels that are moving around, and add them back to the desired location and save the dashboard. The panels will stay in the right location, until they get moved again.
